I can't offer specific edits from my blackberry.

The point about Naughton is made twice, once as part of the description of the alternative and again in the consequences. I would remove it from the description since it makes the alternative less clear.

The next to last section heading is missing "to be" before "considered"

Near the beginning, the part about the extension to Jan 10 does not explicitly say the extension was for the final action. That could cause momentary confusion for some readers.
